

Larry B. Wright, Benefit Chair Carl Bernstein Bill Boggs
 Milton Glaser Edwina Sandys and Richard Kaplan Barbara
 Roberts Stephanie Stokes Stanley Cohen Edward
 Enck Dr. Hal Strelnick Chris Norwood,
 Executive Director, Health People

Invite you to

≈ Honorees ≈

April Gornik
 Julia Gruen
 (The Keith Haring Foundation)
 Edward Martin
 (Pause to Support a Cause)
 Thomas Rivera
 (United States Army)

The Durst Organization Presents
 A HEALTH PEOPLE benefit for AIDS orphans & parentless kids

SEE THE CHILDREN THROUGH THE TREES

September 9th- October 15th
 In the Lobby of the Conde Nast Building
 4 Times Square

Reception and Live Auction

October 15th, 6-9 pm

Curator for the Durst Organization:
 LL Powers

April Gornik's "The Woods"
 Available for purchase for a pre-publication price of $800
 until October 15, 2009

online at www.healthpeople.org
 or please call 718-585-8585 ext
 237

After October 15 the price will be $1000. This limited edition original Lithograph, 22 1/2 x 26
 1/4, edition of 55 signed and numbered, was printed exclusively for this event by
 Maurice Sanchez at Derriere
 L'Etolie Studio

April Gornik
 Milton Glaser
 Ross Bleckner
 Garry Trudeau
 Steve Miller
 (Laumont Editions)
 Walter Channing
 Suzanne Anker
 Michael Knigin
 David Prentice
 Charles Yoder
 Edwina Sandys
 Neke Carson
 Cuca Romley
 Christoph von Hohenberg

Joan Kraisky
 Steve Hudak
 Carolina von Humboldt
 Jean Holabird
 Susan Hall
 Elizabeth Meyer
 Cheryl Warrick
 Bill Ciccariello
 Nick Patten
 Susan Shatter
 Alan Turner
 Matthew Hamblen
 Michelle D'Oyley
 Larry B. Wright
 Steve Marciw

To bid online visit charitybuzz bottom of the page "Find A Charity", click Health People

Auction Host: Maria Hinojosa, Senior Correspondent for "NOW" on PBS

New York City has the most AIDS orphans in the western world---some 50,000 kids already orphaned or living precariously in a home where a parent struggles, often alone, with this disease. This fact may come as a shock to you. These kids are rarely discussed in public policy. There are no NYC (or federally) funded support programs for them. NYC, with all its statistics, even with a special patrol to count potholes, does not bother to count these children, so we can only estimate their numbers.

That is why we call this exhibit, "See the Children Through the Trees." Through the extraordinary and beautiful range of tree images, we hope you will also start to see these children. Health People's Kids-Helping-Kids Mentoring Program, which trains older kids in HIV-affected families to be mentors and leaders for younger children in this difficult situation, is also an extraordinary and unique resource. Started 17 years ago, on the desperate plea of mothers with AIDS to help their kids, it has become a recognized model for positively helping the ever growing number of American kids who, for many reasons, have dead or missing parents. But it still has no government support.

For orphaned and parentless children, a bid today on an artwork is a chance for them to grow as beautifully as we would wish for children and trees alike.

Visit www.healthpeople.org or call Edwin Jimenez 718-585-8585 x-237 for more information.